DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-19 and 30-35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Brim et al., (US 6,049,832).

As per claims 1, 2, 12, 30, 31, and 35, Brim teaches a system for facilitating input management in a computerized environment, the system comprising:

registering an input provider (a keyboard or mouse) with an input manager (container application, 204/ display control, 202);

operating a staging area (container application/display control, [204+202] Fig. 4, 5) including a stack of input events generated in response to the input provider;

accessing and manipulating the stack of input events using at least one filter;

and monitoring manipulation of the stack of events using at least one monitor.

(Abstract, cols. 2-14)

Response to Applicant's arguments

Brim teaches at least one filter (keyboard) for accessing/modifying the staging area. Brim also teaches wherein some filters are user-defined. Brim teaches the use of a keyboard filter, however it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill at the time the invention was made that other types of input devices such as a mouse or a stylus could be utilized in Brim's system without departing from the inventive concept.

Therefore, the use of a mouse or stylus filter/monitor would also be obvious to one of ordinary skill. Brim obviously teaches implementing a dictionary that would define the keyboard input that define an event state Furthermore, Brim teaches wherein the container application/display control recognizes keyboard inputs (via event filter) placed by the user, therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill at the time the invention was made that the keyboard is "registered" i.e. initialized by the system at start up in order for the container application/display control to actually recognize the keyboard inputs. (cols. 8-11)

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
